Elementary School

About our school

Woodlawn Elementary School is part of the Woodlawn neighborhood, located in the southeast corner of the city. Our neighborhood includes many resources and stable residential areas, anchored by longtime homeowners.

At Woodlawn, we are a team that works together as partners in education with each of our families. We believe that our children deserve the best we can offer and strive to ensure that their needs are met.

Our vision, as a school community, is to support our students and expect that they will achieve individual potential.

Our community

The diversity of the Woodlawn community offers students and staff the opportunity to learn about and appreciate other culture, tradition and societies. Our staff encourages students and their families to share perspectives so that our entire school community can foster greater understanding and knowledge of our neighbors and the world. We value community partnerships and encourage parents to volunteer, mentor and enrich our school community.

History of the district

The Schenectady City School district was established in 1854, making it one of the oldest public school systems in the nation. Initially, the district was comprised of one school that housed 1,100 students. It was located on what is currently the campus of Union College. For more than 160 years, the district has offered excellent educational opportunities and extracurricular activities to its students.

Academics

Every student's path to graduation includes excellent teachers, school leaders and other caring adults at all levels of education who will help each child meet academic expectations, plan for the future and be connected to school. Our school offers a variety of programs and opportunities designed to spark individual interest and keep students engaged in learning. We work to ensure that every student has the tools, resources and opportunity to navigate a path to graduation.

PTO & Activities

Woodlawn offers a variety of ways for students and their families to engage in school, as well as beyond the school day. Our parent organizations host an array of events such as activity nights, parent information sessions and conduct fund-raising projects to provide students with enriched classroom activities and field trips.

Our school doors are always open to our parents. We welcome and encourage you to be engaged partners in your child's educational journey.
